What we do

Mobile UI Gallery is a repository of many widgets taken from the applications on Google Play Store. We aim to make life easier for mobile application developers by providing a database of widgets used by other developers.

Features

Clicking each widget will show the original screenshot where the image was taken from. There is a small rectangular box highlighted over the area where the widget was obtained. This allow for developers to get a sense of where widgets should be located at, aiding in their design and development.

Notes

The current website is still under construction, so do bear with the simple UI currently. Furthermore, as it is running on heroku, and free-tier GAE, it might be slow at times. If there are any questions, do visit the contact page for more details.
